WASHINGTON.

AFTER THE DEFEAT. argued, however, that under any circumstances the Senate will remain Republican, and that Democratic legislation will, therefore, be impossible, but the feeling of anxiety in Republican circles is so evident as to become a matter of common remark. The President himself in conversation to-day admitted his chagrin at the result of the elec-tion, and there is good authority for the statement, no less than some of his immediate intimates, that he will, at the proper time, indicate his preference for E. B. Washburne as his successor. In his message to Congress next month he will, according to the same authority, take such grounds against the Credit Mobilierites, and similar corruptionists of the Republican

SENATOR THURMAN SERENADED.

To-night a large crowd, headed by a band of music, serenaded Senator Thurman, who, in response, made a happy, humorous speech, in which, among other things, he said the fearful voters of Massachusetts had been so intimicated by the Ku-Klux that they could not be induced to go to the polls

[Special to the Cincinnati Gazette of to-day.] HOW THEY ACT AT THE SEAT OF GOVERNMENT Little more is known in Washington to-uight concerning the details of the election than was contained in the morning dispatch-the close of the war. The prominent members of the Adminisration have little to say in regard ideas of the causes which led to the defeat. There is very general speculation upon the organization of the next House, and there will be no lack of candidates for the few po sitions which the Democracy will have, ter their organization. It is very evident that the patronage of the House will go a very short way toward furnishing places for those who have decided to apyly,

THE TAXES ON SALARIES.

It is held, in the Treasury, that the late decision of the Supreme Court denying the right of the United States to tax the income of certain State officers, really covers all cases where this tax was collected from the salaries received by any State official. In a majority of instances, however, the refunding of these taxes will be barred by statute limitations. Those who have already entered suit to recover this class of taxes, will obtain a refund, but it is now too late to be-

NEW YORK-CITY.

Summary of the Elections. NEW YORK, November 5.—The following summary of the results of the elections is compiled from the latest returns and advices from all the States and Territories: Alabama elects Houston, Democrat, Gov-Alabama elects Houston, Democrat, Governor by eight to ten thousand majority. The Congressional delegation will probably stand six Democrats to two Republicans, a Democratic gain of three. Arkansas—The returns are meagre. In the election for four Congressmen it is probable Clayton, Hynes and Rogers, Republicans, and Gunter, Democrat, have been successful.

Delaware has elected Cochran, Democrat Governor, and the entire Democratic ticket Florida has elected two Republican Congressmen by a reduced majority.
Georgia has elected the entire Democratic Congressional delegation.

Illinois has gone Republian by a small majority. The opposition has gained seven Kentucky—The entire Democratic Congressional delegation is probably elected.

Louisiana—Claimed by the Conservatives by twelve thousand majority. They have elected four Congressmen and secured the dimish Bagley's supposed majority, and the Democrats claim that Chamberlain is elected Governor by 2,000. The State Senate is Democratic by three majority. The House is Republican by eight majority. The Democrats, however, claim a majority on joint Minnesota is extremely doubtful. The

New Jersey has gone Democratic.
New York—Tilden's majority is probably 40,000. The Legislature is Democratic, insuring the election of a United States Senator

Nevada has elected Bradley, Democrat, Governor. Sharon will be the next United States Senator.

Massachusetts has elected Gaston, Demo-crat, Governor, but the balance of the ticket has gone Republican. The Legislature i also Republican.

Michigan is doubtful. Returns coming in vote is close. Both parties claim the Missouri has elected the Democratic State officers and the Republicans claim the Legisto succeed Fenton.

Pennsylvania has elected the Republican State ticket by a largely reduced unajority. The Legislature is very close, but the Republicans may have a majority on joint ballot for United States Senator.

Tennessee is Democratic and elects a Democratic United States Senator.
South Carolina has elected Chamberlin, Reablican, for Governor. Texas has elected six Democratic Virginia-Six Democratic and three Re Wisconsin—Six Republican and three Republican Congressmen are elected.

Wisconsin—Six Republican and two Democratic Congressmen are elected. The legislature to choose a United States Senator will be Republican. The total The total number of Democratic Congressmen elected is probably 127; Repub-licans, 84. Returns indicate that the Democrats have a majority of between fifty and sixty in the House of Representatives.

To-night Janauschek appears in her great character of Mary Stuart in Schiller's historic drama. This is one of her strongest personations, and one in which, in the opinion of discriminating critics, she has no rival. Her conception of the character is vivid and discriminating, and her ability to put her conception into finished and effective acting is not less striking. Her power is as fierce as her pathos is wonderful. She is supported by a company of unusual strength and efficiency.

This celebrated artiste will appear in this city, at Masonic Hall, next Thursday evening, supported by first class talent. De Murska herself is one of the best and most popular singers, and has won the hearts of her audiences wherever she has appeared. She is assisted by Teresa Carreno, Signor Ferranti, and Mons. Sauret, who are well remembered in this city, and Signor Braga, the celebrated violoncellest, Theo. Hableman, the great German tenor, with Marzo as accompanist. ccompanist.

After an evening's talk lately with an impressible neighbor about supernatural manifestations, she went home and to bed. In a few moments she noticed a ticking in the hall, and a buzzing sound in the ceiling. She listened until she plainly heard a faint, smothered cry, and then she jumped and collected the whole family. First they heard it in one corner—so they thought—then in another, and finally it resolved itself into a series of cries and manifestations behind the fireboard in the large, old-fashioned fireplace. A gentlemen, more courageous and skeptical than the rest, undertook to remove the iron front, and as he did so his hand was gripped, [N. Y. Correspondence St. Louis Republican.] front, and as he did so his hand was gripped, a little spectral claw, with fleshless biting fingers, grabbed and hung on. The man turned to the nightgown brigade backful half awful fact that the materialized form of some little demon was even then clinging with terrible force to his finger. One lately bereaved mother said, "Oh, perhaps its my little Jimmy. Jimmy, is it your dear spirit?" The gentleman made an effort to remove the intruding hand, when his cuff was grasped by a stronger and larger force. "Good mercy," he whispered, "there,s another, big-ger, fiercer, and more rambunctious than the other."

A middle-aged man stole silently toward the door, muttering: "It's my mother-in-law. That just describes her. She's come back, as she swore she would." Just then down came the sheet-iron fire board, and amid a cloud of soot and much consternation the cause of the row appeared. Four little chimney swallows fluttered into the room, and on the dirt-begrimed hand of the investigating boarder, appeared a fifth, while the old mother clung pertinaciously to his coat-uff. It was an inglorious scattering of the weird, unearthly expections of the assembled party, but it's about the size of all these wonderous manifestions, when the bare facts can be come at. It is within the range of probability that Pennsylvania has gone Democratic. Illinois and Michigan are very close, each party probably electing some candidates. In these States, as well as in New York, the platform was a hard money, speedy-return-tospecie-payment one, and the manner in which this principle has been sustained and inflation condemned, is exceedingly gratifying. It not only shows that the people have not lost their senses, but that they are honest.

Among other things snowed under by the election was a constitutional provision establishing female suffrage in Michigan. Susan B. Anthony and the other clacquers drummed the State vigorously and the courageous Susan was confident of victory. But alack-a-day truth is again crushed to earth and will have to wait before it can rise again. It is rumored that the cause of this repulse was the revelation made by Bessie in regard to Miss A's conduct at Tilton's house. This is important if true.

THE Republican press is more buoyant over the election than reasonably could have been expected, and many papers than anything else, perhaps, the divided condition of the party. THE News said some time since that the most wonderful thing in the laying of ocean cables was that broken ends could be picked up in mid-ocean at great depths. Another remarkable illustration of this has just been given. The direct cable was brokenoff several weeks ago in the middle of the Atlantic and after a month's absence the Faraday returned to the spot marked by the buoy, grappled for the cable, recovered it at a depth of a mile and a half, spliced it and resumed the work of paying it out. If this thing of finding a cord no bigger than your thumb, in water a mile and a half deep and bringing it up to the surface is not a wonderful triumph of mind, we should like to know what is.

THE indications are that the Democratic majority in the next House of Representatives will be at least sixty. This is too much. A majority of less than ten would have been valuable to the country, for the more evenly balanced the parties are the better it will be. When power can be won or lost by a slight change, rulers are exceedingly careful in their acts; but when it is held apparently so firmly as a great majority indicates, they run riot. That has been the trouble with the Republicans Their power has been too absolute. They have been imperious, indifferent to the New Jersey—The State roes Democratic by 12,000. This victory is emphatically a victory of the cardinal principle of the Democratic party, and an utter repudiation by the country of that vicious system of intermeddling by the Federal Government with the internal affairs of the States, which has almost driven the country from its Republi-can moorings—we mean Republican not in the misused partisan sense of that term— and which has been the fruitful parent of all

NO POWER COULD STEM IT.

[Chicago Tribune (Independent).] Perhaps the October elections prepared the public for the announcement of the gen-eral result indicated by our dispatches and local returns this morning. The tide was against the Republican party, and there was no power strong enough to stem it. It is not necessary at this time to inquire into the causes of the political revolution; we can scarcely gather an intelligent idea from the mass of returns that come to us from all points. The most astounding news comes from Massachusetts, which has elected a Democratic Governor—the first elected by a straight Democratic vote for more than twenty years. Ben Butler is defeated, which may be set down as a Republican victory in this sense: Had the Republicans generally throughout the country been defeated and Butler elected, the party would have been thoroughly identified with the very worst el-ements that have brought about its defeat.

BABYLON IS FALLEN. [Chicago Times (Scratchy.)]

But it would be tedious to go over the whole field. The story is the same in each of the twenty-four States which chose representatives to the Forty-fourth Congress. Th dominant party, by attempting to overawe the voters, has met with a Waterloo defeat. It finds itself to-day fallen from its high estate; reduced from an all-powerful agency in the administration of the government to a powerless minority. Could a defeat be more omplete—more overwhelming?

In Massachusetts two notable examples of the tendency of the times are shown. Prof. Seelye, whose able speeches in favor of a return to an honest money basis have attracted national attention, is elected over Stevens, the rag money candidate of the Republican party. Chapin, the hard money candidate in the Eleventh District, is also elected by a goodly majority over the Republican shinplaster candidate. In almost every disshinplaster candidate. (Cincinnati Star (Labor).1 The result of the elections yesterday may be attributed to the general disgust of the people with Grant and his administration. Whatever else it ends, it is the end of Grantism. The country has abundant cause of rejoicing over the fact.

It does not follow by any means that it is the end of the Republican party, or its as-

The Republican party has been fourteen years in power and has gained many spiendid victories, but never a grander victory than on yesterday! In the past it has tri-umphed over the scattered forces of the Democracy; on yesterday it triumphed over partisanship and over the bad men in its own ranks! From State after State come the returns indicating the defeat of men entering the field as Republican candidates tering the field as Republican candidates and beaten by Republican votes. Pity 'tis we have had no recent earthquake to give you a new figure of speech, but we are used to the old, so trot out your harnyard fowls, and let them crow out your barnyard fowls and let them crow and cackle; but there is a prospect that the elections may be contested. On reflection however, we conclude that there is something out of gear,—there must be, else there is no way of accounting for it.

LITTLE PROMISE OF GOOD.

[Lafayetfe Courier (Rep.)] What the Democracy will do with their victory remains to be seen. That they will use it wisely, in the interest of the people, we scarcely dare hope. Its record gives little promise of future good conduct. Its tendencies are all in the wrong direction. It thrusts into places of authority rebels and rebel sympathisers whenever it has the power. Loyal men, those who stood in the defence of the country in its peril, must take

back seats. ONLY A TEMPORARY REVERSE

(Chicago Journal (Rep.)] The salary-grab and other Congressional acts of doubtful character are bearing their fruits. The currency question figures as an element of distraction. Political indifference among the better class of citizens, who are generally Republicans, weakens the Republican vote. The third-term bugbean frightened some men from their sense of pro-priety. And, lastly, though by no means least, the fact that in the "off-years in poli-tics" local and personal considerations enter largely into the canvass, distracting and di-viding the old parties, must not be left out of the account. These are among the reasons of recent Republican reverses — reasons which, if the Republican officials will prove themselves worthy of popular confidence in the meantime, will not exist, or be operative to any considerable extent, in the nations campaign two years hence, when Presiden Grant's successor will be elected. The Republican party had a similar series of reverse es and discouragements in the "off-years" during the war, but they only served to nerve us to more vigorous efforts, resulting

The statesmen in the party will now have more influence; and the blowers and strikers, the packers of primaries, and drillers of repeaters, the men who make merchandise of votes, the bummers, the scala wags, will have to step down and out.

It is a good thing to be purified, even "so as by fire." The virtue of the country is still largely on the Republican side. The riff-raff will now, in many cases, go over to the opposition, and the really good men on the opposition, and the really good men on the other side now will then come to the the other side now, will then come to the Republicans; and in 1876, the "Party as it will be," cleansed of its impurities, compacted by a declared adherence to popular vital principles, educated by temporary defeat, will sweep on to a triumphant victory.

ever seen, but it does not follow that the American people have suddenly fallen in love with the policy or the principles of the Democratic party. If they have, then it becomes the duty and the mission of Republicans to undeceive them; but they have not. This overwhelming defeat of the Republican party is intended more as a rebuke to it than indorsement of the Democracy. If the party will profit by the lesson, it will be well; if not, it will receive more and harder ones. We want better leadership, and a higher tone of political morals. We want the best sentiments of the party to find expression, and its best elements to come to the front. We its best elements to come to the front. We want harmony at Washington. We want to want harmony at Washington. We want to agree on a line of national policy, adopt it boldly and pursue it fixedly. We want to have done with this contemptible shillyshallying on the part of Republicans in Congress. We want to free ourselves from every incumbrance, plant ourselves squarely on sound principles, break loose from the control of the office-holders, lift the party to a higher plane than it has occupied during the administration, bring forward henest, pure, able representative men for President and Vice-President in 1876, and we will elect them as sure as the world stands.

Is Bismarck Going to have a Stroke of Apoplexy.

[From Berlin Correspondence N. Y. Herald.] The temper of Prince Bismarck has be-come ungovernable. He is constantly rack-ed by pain of body and mental disquiet. His health is very bad, and his diet of a kind to health is very bad, and his diet of a kind to keep him in a perpetual state of feverish ir-ritation. He has of late become sullenly suspicious, impatient of observation, and as rude as a bear with a sore head; has a sore head, indeed, himself. He has long been jealous of Count Arnim, who is much liked by the Queen, and whose elevation would be certainly welcome to the nobility. What he has done against Count Arnim has been dictated as much by fear as by anger, and fear is always cruel. He has done himself more harm than he thinks by these proceedings, and I expect to hear every day that he will have a stroke of apoplexy.

Lady Dilke's Cremation The cremation of Lady Dilke's body, which took place in Dresden, a few days since, was adopted in obedience to the urgent entreaty of the lady in question, to whom the idea of burial was repugnant, and whose last wishes her surviving relatives felt it a duty, at whatever pain to themselves, to carry out. A statement published by a contemporary represents men of science as having been present, as if for the purpose of experiment. Their presence was the condition on which cremation was permitted by the authorities.

The Twentieth Afmiversary of the Young Men's Christian Association was appropriately observed at the First Presbyterian church last evening, the attendance being quite large and the exercises of an interesting character. The meeting was opened by reading of Scriptures and prayer, after which the acting President, C. P. Jacobs, read his annual report for the year ending September 1, 1874, which may be entitinarized as follows:

The reading room has been visited by 22,500 persons, and the number of papers and magpersons, and the number of papers and mag-azines received and filed, 10,623. The library contains 1,000 volumes, and the reading room has been newly fitted up, and now presents quite a passable appearance. The committee on missions have made 245 visits and distributed 30,000 tracts and religious papers, and the Benevo-lence Committee have furnished 189 meals to deserving persons, have secured for others 43 railway passes, and have given out considerable clothing.

The Ladies' Working Committee have collected and distributed $253 48 in money and clothing, and have sustained a girl's sewing school which has made up 250 garments for destitute persons. Regular weekly prayer meetings have been held under the auspices of the Ladies' Missionary Committee with meetings have been need under the auspices of the Ladies' Missionary Committee with gratifying results. The Outlook in the Forty-Fourth Con gress from a Republican Stand-Point-Washington Correspondence Cincinnati Gazette.

[Washington Correspondence Cincinnati Gazette.]

But, while there can be no real control in the House by the Democracy for a year to come, if they succeed to-morrow, the coming session will find them more defiant and fruitful in devices for putting Republicans at a disadvantage. There will also be industrious intrigiting looking to a quiet arrangement of the questions of policy toward the South, tariff and free trade, inflation and hard money, and the kindred questions upon which the Democracy is now hopelessly divided.

Unless the present leaders of the Republicant

Unless the present leaders of the Republicans are unfit for their leadership, the coming session will be one for serious and profitable study of the causes which underlie the reverses of the season, and for prompt, bold, and brave action suitable for the emergency. If the Democrats carry the House, the Presi dential campaign will open in earnest when Congress assembles, the first Monday in next month. There are a number of Republicans here who have been long in political life and who rank among our shrewdest observ ers of affairs political, who freely declar that the loss of the House will be the best thing that, under all the circumstances, car happen to the party, and the thing which, all things considered, will do most toward insuring the election of a Republican Presilent in 1870. These reason, that unless the present wide pread dissatisfaction can be removed, the chances are now in favor of a Democratic President. They do not regard it as probable that the Republican managers now in Con-gress will be able to restore full confidence in a single session of the next Congress, in case they are to continue responsible for the they complete. In short, they do not believe that those who now control the legislation can consummate any very great changes, so great, at any rate, as to impress the people deeply, and convince them that causes of dissatisfaction are to give place to a policy and to positive measures which they will ap-

But, reason these gentlemen, let the present majority, hampered as it is by the temper of the people, once become a free minority that cannot be held responsible for any of those measures of policy that originate in the House, it can then devote itself to such work on the floor as will rapidly restore its standing with the people. At the same time, it is held, the Democracy will enter into ower and become answerable to the people t will assume the reins at the opening of the long session preceding the Presidential nominations. No half-way policy upon the issues which it has made before the country will satisfy the body of triumphant voters. The Eastern Democrats must take issue with those of the West and South upon the curwhich look to the undoing of legislation growing out of the war. Free trade Demo crats and tariff Democrats will have a battle to fight in organizing the House its most important committee, we will be the grave issues. With them will come the confidence and arrogance born of victory long waited for, and the political greed caused by many years of fasting. The lease of power will begin just when a negative policy on almost all questions of moment will be nec essary to secure party supremacy; it will also begin at a time when rank and file of its own party will loudly de-mand a positive policy. To do nothing will disgust the Democracy. To act along the lines which it must follow, if it attempts anything, will consolidate all Republican elements again. In a word, these gentlemen argue, that in the one session before the nominations for President, a Democratic House would inevitably reunite all Republicans again and make sure the election of a Republican President.

This view of the case does not take into consideration the fact that the next House will count the electoral vote for the next President, and may possibly itself elect the President. Democrats hereabouts are boasting that if their party obtains the House, their managers will see to it that the election of President is thrown into the House. And while this is by no means an easy task, they claim that they are quite equal to it.

The Business Coming Before the Legis lature.

[Indianapolis Cor. Cincinnati Gazette,] So far as I am informed there is little business to come before the General Assembly this winter, but much of what there is is very important. The eight amendments to the Constitution, of which I shall write at length in the future, are of general interest and highly important. The temperance question, inasmuch as it is destined to enter into the business of both Houses as prominently as it did two years ago, should be carefully handled and thoroughly considered. Several large appropriations are to be asked for which ought not to be given blindly. Then there are laws to be amended, and new ones to be passed, that will, or should, occupy considerable time in their consideration. The present salaries of the State officers ought to be overhauled and equalized, and one or two of them cut down. The Aud tor of State, for instance, receives not less thau twenty-five thousand dollars per year in fees from the Insurance Department alone. Fifty-five hundred is paid him for looking after the old free is paid him for looking after the old free banks of the State, a work which requires not more than two hours a year. The Treas-urer of State is also paid five or six hundred dollars for doing his share of this work. These two items alone pay the State Auditor thirty thousand dollars, while other fees increase it ten thousand more. Is there any reason why one State officer should get $40,000 a year salary, and the Governor less than one-sixth as much? Several "little things" of this character could be looked into and changed with great profit to the State. The question of public printing must also be disposed of, and one or two important items connected with the public schools. Thus it will be seen that while the Legislature will not be overworked, the business to come be fore it is important, and should be carefully considered by prudent, nonest men.

The doors of saloon 120, on South Illinois stood wide open at an early hour this morning, and the police at first suspected a burglary. Finally they concluded that everybody last night got drunk over election returns, and went off without locking up.

George Sands, who has figured frequently in the City Court, was up again to-day for abusing Jennie Coleman, who, under oath, testified that he drew a knife and threatened her life because she refused to submit to his dictation. A fine was entered against him.

Last night an impecunious young fellow applied at the Academy for passage to the entertainment, and proffered in exchange for a ticket old coins of Holland, Lombardy, Canada, Prussia, and Denmark. A person desiring these unusual coins for pocket pieces, promptly furnished the ticket.

There was a half hour's block-ade, after which, under protest, General Pease ordered the freights to give way to the express; but under general rail way rules, by being late, the first had no right to the track.

Fatal Result.

Little Willie, son of William Zwick, 222 North East street, died last night from the injuries received from that roller Monday afternoon, of which particulars have already been given. The name of the colored man driving at the time is unknown to the family, but it is believed he is not to blame for the sad occurrence. Willie was a pupil of the 1st Ward school, and was aged 6.

Books for Firemen.

The boys of No. 8 reel express gratification towards Hugo Hug and another North New Jersey party for a handsome and valuable collection of books. The boys at headquarters on Massachusetts avenue send thanks for what they have received, and the lads of No. 2 engine are grateful to Miss Ida Hop-kins, E. J. Goff and Wm. Salters for substan-tial recognition. The collections are accumulating handsomely.

Destructive Fire.

Last night an incendiary fired several thousand staves, belonging to J. S. Carey, of this city, and stored alongside the I. & St. L. track at the Danville, (Ind.) station. The wind carried the flames across to the depot, neat, comfortable structure, and it was to tally destroyed, together with several yards of the road-bed—the iron being warped by the heat, ties burned, etc. The express, due here at 3:30, was delayed seven hours, and the mail this forenoon was nearly two hours late. Mr. Carey's loss will not be far from $1,000, and the I. & St. L. will run beyond this figure, notwithstanding the company saved their safe, express matter and a quan-tity of baggage stored therein.

A Line Shot Into Eternity.

Last night, about nine o'clock, Philip McHugh, formerly of 115 Pine street, St. Louis, and a young man of 20, committed suicide in Military Park by shooting himself through the heart. The shot and an accompanying groan was heard by John Morgan, who was passing close by at the time and who was passing close by at the time, and word was sent to officers Campbell and Gipe, but before their arrival death had claimed him. The shot, doubtless, was almost in-stantaneously fatal. As was Anticipated The Case Against George Harding Nolle Prossed. The Criminal Court room was densely crowded vesterday afternoon on the occasion of the arraignment of George Harding to answer to the charge of assault and battery upon Sol. Moritz, the circumstances of which are too well known to need repeating at this time. The defendant put in his appearance at the appointed hour accompanied by Major Gordon, his attorney, and Prosecutor Cropsey opened the proceedings by moving the court to enter into a nolle prosequi in the case by reason of the non attendance of Moritz, without whom it would be folly to proceed with the trial, Before the court passed on the motion Major Gordon advanced and most effectively depicted the circumstances under which Moritz was assaulted by the defendant, and expressed the wish that the court would sustain the motion and discharge his client from further annovance and trouble from an affair which has already wounded him so deeply. Judge Jordan then said that in view of the absence of the prosecuting witness, and the action of the grand jury in the case, he would nolle the case and the defendent was accordingly discharged; which was the occasion of loud and protracted applause from the crowd who were only restrained in their demonstrations of approbation by the court interfering and demanding silence.

Monday, November 2d, we shall offer for sale

As a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer to Almighty God. As Governor of the State of Indiana, I recommend to the people thereof a general and proper observance of that day.

Together with the people of the other States, we have occasion to be thankful for many blessings, but in a special degree, the people of this State should be grateful for the abundant harvests that have rewarded their labors. In their prayers to God and by acts of beneficence, I ask them to remember the stricken portions of our country in which drouth and devastating insects have brought want and suffering.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the State to be affixed, at the city of Indianapolis, this fourth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand, eight hundred and seventy-four, and of the State the fifty-eighth.
